

Make-up water from Potable water source

For colder climates susceptible to freezing conditions, or warmer climates experiencing high heats, the pump base assembly and all exposed water piping must be protected from these extreme weather conditions by either installing the pump base assembly (or the system as a whole) inside the building, or within an insulated and heated structure outside the building.

Illustration Only - Not To Code

